Editor's Column

Next week will be National Highway Week, so proclaimed by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

California's Governor, Edmund G. Brown, says the days, starting with Sunday and ending on September 25, will be "an opportunity to gain fresh perspective on a major aspect of our state's forward progress."

In Monterey County there are 292 miles of state highway and of this number the 72 miles of Highway One south of Carmel represent a true aspect of California's forward progress because they are the first official unit of this state's scenic highway system. Eventually, 5,000 miles of highways will be included in the system patterned on standards developed in Monterey County and used as a prototype for the entire state.

"Monterey County zoned the entire coastal scenic corridor with great care and sensitivity to the unique beauty of the area," applauds California Roadside Council in its Fall bulletin.

As a result of this forward progress on the county level attributable to efforts of Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson of Point Lobos, State Senator Frederick S. Farr of Carmel, five years ago, obtained the authorization of the California Legislature to conduct a pilot study on scenic highways using Monterey County's coastal zoning as a basis.

The study resulted in the adoption of a master plan for a statewide system of scenic highways last year based on a bill introduced by Senator Farr.

This Fall, the coast road below Carmel will be officially dedicated as the first unit of California's network of scenic highways, so designated on June 11 by John Erreca, state director of public works.

As chairman of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Natural Resources, Senator Farr has, by means of another bill, permitted the state itself, or in cooperation with the federal government, to establish parkways. These are elongated strips of park land through which a road passes.

The creation of a number of roadside safety rests is another aspect of forward highway progress accomplished by the state legislature in the past year.

Governor Brown emphasizes that "we are devoting more attention to the relationship of highways to our environment," in his National Highway Week message to the state. In no small measure

Public Ownership Better Claims Barnet J. Segal, Water District Director

Whatever the water needs of this area are, now and in the future, public ownership is a better and cheaper means of meeting requirements than private ownership, claims Barnet J. Segal, above, Carmel's director on the board of the Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District, which is asking voters, on September 28, to approve a $17,500,000 revenue bond issue to purchase holdings of the California Water and Telephone Company, also the East Monterey Water Company.

This week, Mr. Segal reviewed the history of the municipal water district for the Pine Cone to demonstrate some of the advantages of public ownership of local water resources.

HISTORY OF DISTRICT

Between 1950 and 1958, he said, California Water and Telephone Company raised local water rates three times. The raises were reflected as 60-88 percent increases in consumers' bills, depending on elevations at which homes were situated.

A survey of 67 California communities, made by the Monterey Peninsula Herald in 1958, revealed that all had cheaper water rates than those on the Peninsula. Further investigation disclosed that, of 22 privately owned water districts, only four charged higher rates than California Water and Telephone Company.

WATER DISTRICT FORMED

As a result of these disclosures, citizens committees were formed to study remedies and, in 1958, with Peninsula civic bodies and chambers of commerce favoring action advocated by the committee sutdies, voters were asked to approve the formation of a municipal water district. The proposal received an approximately 2-1 favorable vote at the polls and five directors were elected at the same time.

These directors began investigations to determine the feasibility of purchasing the water company's holdings. However, the company said its properties were not for sale and would not set a price.

As a consequence of this, the directors petitioned the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California to establish just compensation for the water company.

PUC HEARINGS

In 1959 hearings started, and were to last through 1964, in one of the most hotly contested and lengthiest cases ever to come before the PUC.

Mr. Segal pointed out that the contested procedures entailed employment by the water district of the best legal, appraisal and engineering specialists obtainable.

At the end of 80 days of hearings, the PUC report contained 9,000 pages of testimony. The price of California Water and Telephone company was set by the PUC at $12,720,000 and that of the East Monterey company at $550,000.

The heavy cost to the municipal water district of obtaining these prices, Mr. Segal claimed, is more than justified by the fact that in the past six years the private water company has not raised consumer rates while improving its holdings by $2 million. Also, water rates have been kept below those allowable, he stressed.

The saving resulting from the the establishment of the water district, Mr. Segal estimated at $11,000,000. This sum includes the differences in price set by the PUC and the values the water

CHANCE TO CHALLENGE HUMBLE OIL REFINERY

City Attorney William Burleigh reports that his research during the past week has produced the possibility that there is "a chance" of challenging the special permit granted by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to Humble Oil and Refining Company which plans to build a refinery at Moss Landing.

Tonight, Mr. Burleigh will accompany Mayor Herbert Blanks to the monthly meeting of mayors of county municipalities and inform those present of his research based on the possibility that supervisors took legislative action, subject to referendum, when granting the permit.

Committee Told School District Financial Needs

Shall education in the Carmel Unified School District be just good, or outstanding? What quality of instruction do residents of the district want for their children? Are taxpayers willing to pay for a first rate program? These are just three questions which the citizens committee to study financial problems of the district must endeavor to answer in the next six weeks under the co-chairmanship of Richard T. Wilsdon and Frederick K. Duhring.

Last night, members of the board of education and Superintendent Medill Bair outlined for the committee the financial problems of the district.

Board member Clayton Neill Jr., stressed the fact that the Carmel district is committed to a first rate education program but the burden of financing this instruction falls on the property taxpayer. Carmel district is dependent on real estate taxation for 76 percent of its income. Other districts are financed to a much greater extent, 50 to 60 percent, from other sources such as industrial developments.

This community wants good education but the board has had to make lots of cuts in past years and is now reaching the point of eliminating key projects because of lack of money and needs help in solving its financial problems, he declared.

Trustee Dr. Hilton Bialek enumerated five of the district's outstanding needs. These are a higher salary scale for teachers; more curriculum materials; greater horizontal and vertical co-ordination of the education program; in-service training for teachers; and broadening of the curriculum to include, for example, vocational training which is expensive.

"Superintendent Bair has strong feelings about what to do, but can't do it because of the district's financial situation. We are asking you to give us an objective outside look," Dr. Bialek told the committee.

Another trustee, Mrs. Herbert Blanks, said that the board has not adequate money to maintain school buildings and grounds; school libraries are "a sad situation"; bus transportation is "a great concern" because the board is unable, financially, to transport children living within a two-mile radius from any school.

Trustee Steven Sassoon emphasized the lacks pointed out, this Spring, in the various citizens committee reports on curriculum.

To remedy many of the lacks, more teachers and a higher salary scale are needed, he observed.

"What the board would like to know is if the community wants a higher salary scale to ensure better teachers," he told the committee.

Mr. Sassoon also said that a new library at the high school and a future elementary or intermediate school in Carmel Valley are building needs of the district.

Carmel is not a normal community but about as ideal a place as there is in the world, Superintendent Bair stated, and added that children in the district are going to live in a different kind of world, not the environment in which they are being brought up.

Parents must face the fact that their children must be educated

Council Selects New Fire Chief

Carmel's new fire chief will report for duty on October 8. In a special session Monday evening, the city council selected John R. Baker, 32, to fill the position left vacant since the resignation of Robert E. Smith last Spring. In the meantime a volunteer member of the department, James R. Belvail, has been acting fire chief.

Chief Baker, for the past three years, has headed the Borrego Springs Fire District in San Diego County. He was one of 94 applicants for the position of Carmel fire chief.

Written examinations were taken by applicants in their home towns. Oral examinations, conducted on Monday by fire chiefs of neighboring cities, Acting Chief Belvail, Fire Commissioner Eben Whittlesey and City Administrator Hugh Bayless, were given to four men chosen as a result of the written tests. Following Monday's interviews, the field was narrowed to two men. The council met for two and a half hours with these applicants and selected Chief Baker for the $800 a month job.

ARTS INC. TO TELL AIMS TO STATE ARTS COMMISSION

Arts Inc. members Malcolm Millard and Kenneth Ehrman will present a statement of the purposes and plans of the organization at the current two-day meeting of the California Arts Commission at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. Other Peninsula leaders in the arts have also been invited to report on their organizations' needs and problems as well as current progress in the development of an area arts council and cultural center.

At present, Arts Inc. is negotiating with the City of Carmel on the possibility of the non-profit group developing a $5.5 million cultural center on the city-owned Sunset School property.

CLOSE HIGH SCHOOL SWIMMING POOL

The Carmel Unified School District is closing the Carmel High School pool for recreational swimming, effective this weekend. Until now, the pool has been open to the public weekends. Little use has been made of the facility. This lack of attendance has caused the district to close the pool. However, it will be available for swimming classes by appointment. Arrangements should be made by telephoning 624-3342.

The Carmel Valley pool, operated by the school district, will continue to be open for recreational swimming on Saturdays and Sundays from noon until 5 p.m. until November 1.

The week before school began we received those very well done schedule charts and I spent two hours trying to figure out why there were six day letters and only five days of school. The children were not puzzled in the slightest. "Heck, it's simple," they assured me, "Monday is A and Tuesday is B and so on and next Monday is F and you start all over again on Tuesday. You know, week cycle."

But I couldn't believe it. I was sure they'd make a mistake in the Junior High, oh, excuse me, I mean, Middle School mimeo room. So I called and asked if somebody would clear it up for me. I was given a brief explanation and then told please not to try to explain it to my children as they'd undoubtedly already figured it out for themselves and I would only confuse them.

I guess I shouldn't have been surprised. For people who understand new math the way these kids do, week cycle's a pushover.

Nevertheless, the administration did expect a certain amount of confusion the first week and Principal Orville Rogers says they were amazed at the smoothness with which it went off. Well, he says, there were a few tense moments with lockers and buses and coin change machines but otherwise, no problems. Oh, except for Priscilla's mumps. Poor Priscilla Nesbitt came down with her son's mumps the Saturday before school opening and the rest of the faculty held its breath. Sarah Leidig was able to fill in for her, though, so that catastrophe was taken care of.

But at home Priscilla has company. Her daughter, Penelope, has mumps, too, and hasn't been able to start her senior year at Carmel High, yet.

The Middle School lockers were no trouble for our youngest. He's crazy about them. "You know my school books locker combination?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Well, I use it on my P.E. locker and guess what?"

"It opens your P.E. locker, too."

"No, but on a clear day, I can get the police calls."

See what I mean? Crazy about them.

La Mesa School in Monterey has a new teacher named William Bear. So now we have two educational bears on the peninsula.

For all you fishermen who've been having such poor luck lately, here's a story that won't make you feel a bit better. Somebody took a 28-inch ten-pound German brown trout out of Los Padres Reservoir the other day.

New Circle Play Opens Tomorrow

"The Firebugs," by the contemporary Swiss playwright Max Frisch, will open the fall season of the Community Theatre on Friday evening. Described as an exciting departure from the usual Circle Theatre fare, the play has been staged by Norman McPhee, recently appointed associate director of the Golden Bough Players, and designed by Carol McPhee.

Allan Weinfield, Loel Shuler, John Miller and Peter Kuehn head the cast of "The Firebugs," which also features such familiar Circle actors as April Edwards, Irving Rogers, Nick Hovick, Harry Fletcher and Sally Richmond. Newcomers to the group are Richard Woodring, John Hicks, Paul Chrostowski and Glenn Kovacevich.

Max Frisch is one of Europe's leading playwrights, ranking with Friedrich Durrenmatt, Eugene Ionesco and Samuel Beckett. "The Firebugs," which he calls "a learning play without a lesson," has had great success off-Broadway as well as at the Actors' Workshop in San Francisco and at the Seattle Repertory Theatre. A wry, offbeat comedy about the inability of modern man to prevent the destruction of society, "The Firebugs" is both hilarious and terrifying.

"The Firebugs" will play on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8:30 o'clock through October 31. Season tickets to all Community Theatre productions for a period of one year, may be purchased at the box office at a substantial saving.

Arts Commissioner Fred Rider Resigns

Carmel arts commissioners, last week, noted, with regret, the resignation of Fred Rider. Mr. Rider stated that pressure of other activities had caused him to submit his resignation to the city council. The commission requested that a letter, expressing appreciation of Mr. Rider's service to the city as a member of the arts commission, be sent to him by the commission's secretary, Hugh Bayless.

On the agenda of the meeting was the selection of Room 11 at Sunset Center for a proposed children's art museum. This ground-level room is at the south end of the wing which contains Sunset auditorium. The request for this space will be presented to the Sunset Commission.

Consideration was also given to building sheds on the stage of the Forest Theater to house and protect acoustical shells, public address system and piano.

Engaged Pair Feted

In an atmosphere of happy excitement, Susan Shirley and Ronald M. Faia, who announced their engagement recently, received congratulations from a throng of well-wishers at a party given by Ronald's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Faia Jr., at their Carmel home on September 3.

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Shirley of Carmel, graduated from Carmel High School in 1962. She attended Oregon State College, where she was affiliated with Chi Omega sorority, and California Polytechnic College. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grandfield of Carmel and Mrs. Helen Shirley of Pasadena.

Her fiance attended the University of Oregon and is now in his third year of dental school at the University of Southern California. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta and Delta Sigma Delta professional fraternity. He is the brother of Thomas Faia and Dr. John Faia III of Carmel, and the grandson of Mrs. Ruby Marrs of Carmel.

The young couple plan a December wedding and will make their home in the Los Angeles area until Ronald has completed his studies.

Bonnie Bair Wed

Following their marriage on September 1 and a Northern California honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cornelius Lofgren, the former Bonnie Bair, are at home in Cupertino.

The Reverend Karel Vit officiated at the couple's wedding, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Medill Bair of Carmel Valley.

Bonnie, whose father is superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District, is a 1963 graduate of George Washington University and also studied at Stanford. She is the sister of Robin and Nicki Bair of Carmel.

Her new husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lofgren of Salem, Oregon, and the brother of James Lofgren. He is currently working toward his doctorate at Stanford University, from which he graduated in 1958, and will be an instructor in American history at San Jose State College this fall. Decision For Bob Kahn Faced with three choices concerning his future, Robert Kahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Kahn of Carmel Point, was having a difficult time this week deciding the proper course. In nation-wide competition, he was awarded an American Broadcasting Company scholarship to attend the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. Last spring his performance in the lead role of Hamlet, in Portland, brought a suggestion from members of the London Drama Centre, touring the U.S., that he try out for study in England. Following auditions at Brown University, in which there were 2,000 entrants, Bob was selected to attend the Drama Centre.

Before these developments, he had planned to return for his junior year at Reed College. His sister, Karen, newly enrolled as a freshman at Reed, is urging him to join her there. Bob's decision will be announced to his "relaxed" parents before the weekend.

Neighborly 'Doings'

Over a year ago, a former resident of the Mission Tract decided it might be fun for the neighbors to know one another better and a delightful tradition of an informal monthly party, given by one or another of the group, took firm root.

After time off for summer vacations, the neighborly gatherings began again Saturday evening, with Leonard Heller as host. In attendance were the Ray Brownells, the Fred Stanleys, the Raymond Smiths, the John Holmans, the Francis P. Lloyds, former tract residents Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bucquet; also Mrs. Amy Garrity, Mrs. Hazel Ransdall, Miss Barbara Burdick and Mrs. Lise Tescher.

A trip many people dream of will begin Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. Steven Kahn, who will fly to Athens to board one of two 75-foot yachts for a three to four week cruise of the Greek islands. Organized by the director of the Denver Art Museum, who will accompany the group, the tour should prove of unusual interest.

With the end of summer activities at the Perry-Mansfield School of Theatre and Dance at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, Miss Portia Mansfield also plans to join the island tour before returning to Carmel for the winter.

Larry Horan Was Surprise Visitor Here Last Weekend

An unexpected visit to Carmel was made by Laurence P. Horan, Peace Corps administrator in Costa Rica, last weekend.

Mr. Horan was in the United States to lecture at a Peace Corps training program, and to do recruiting in Houston, Texas. His schedule also included recruiting talks at San Francisco State College and the University of California, Berkeley.

In between, he decided to stay overnight in Carmel. His arrival Saturday evening was kept secret by his host, State Senator Fred Farr, senior partner in the Carmel law firm with which Mr. Horan is associated.

But, Senator Farr urgently requested that the other two partners in the firm, Richard T. Wilsdon and Francis P. Lloyd, also the firm's secretarial staff come to his home.

Apprehensively, everyone responded to the summons. After they had gathered at Senator Farr's home, he cried "Surprise" and in came Larry.

The rest of the evening was spent happily exchanging news. Larry reported that he enjoys his challenging Peace Corps work in Costa Rica where the people are most receptive to the program. He also said that when he returns here, after his tour of duty in Costa Rica is ended, there will be a fifth young Horan in the family.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF THE MONTEREY PENINSULA:

The so-called Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers Assn., with the financial backing of California Water and Telephone Co., recently sent Peninsula residents a letter filled with erroneous and misleading statements about the proposed bond issue.

The letter was obviously a desperate attempt to confuse and mislead voters about the proposed Water District revenue bond issue to finance local ownership and control of the water systems serving the Peninsula. However, the people have a right to know the truth about the bond issue.

Let's take a look at what the letter said then lets see what the truth is.

The water corporation charges that the district has already borrowed $750,000.00. What it doesn't say is that the $750,000.00 was used to pay for legal proceedings before a state agency which reduced the price we will pay for the water system by $11,430,000.00.

The water corporation says the district has unlimited powers. That's nonsense. The district's powers are clearly limited by state law, and what's more the ballot box gives the people control over the elected officials of the district. They have no such control over the officials of the water corporation sitting far away in Santa Monica and New York City.

The water corporation warns that we still have to make up local taxes it now pays. It hopes we won't realize we really pay these taxes. The corporation just tacks them onto our water bill, along with thousands of dollars of state and federal taxes and substantial profits. All taxes we now pay as a part of our water bill, ($583,235.00 in 1964.), will be eliminated. More than 80 percent of California water users are served by locally-owned tax-exempt systems. We are in the minority of less than 20 percent who are still bitten by double taxation—once in our own tax bill and again in our water bill.

The water corporation says the $17,500,000.00 bond issue is not enough to complete the acquisition. The truth is that the corporation tried to hold us up for a higher price but the state said "no." That's where the $750,000.00 went—for legal proceedings to establish the fair value.

The corporation says the bond issue puts us "in hock" until the year 2000. The truth is that we'll be in hock to pay higher and higher water rates to the company forever if we don't vote to buy the water system and put it under local control.

Then the water corporation trumpets "Don't be fooled" and promptly tries to fool us by saying "bond issues of any kind are backed up by your taxes." That statement is plain false! The proposed bonds are secured solely by revenues from water sales and no taxes could ever be levied for their payment. The law forbids it.

Finally the water corporation calls the bond issue a "fuzzy proposal." The corporation wants us to be confused by its erroneous and misleading statements but the truth of the proposal is clearcut.

1. The price of the water system has been set.
2. Local ownership will end the double taxation of water users.
3. Water bills will be reduced by the district. The corporation can't make that promise and won't even promise to hold the line on water rates in the future.

A clear understanding can only point one way—to a "YES" vote for the water bonds on September 28.

While in Verona, Italy, Dr. Giulio de Petra, chairman of the DLI Italian department at the Presidio, received a call from General Umberto de Martino, Commanding General of Allied Land Forces Southern Europe, whom he first met 35 years ago when both men were in training for international sports competition.

In renewing their friendship, Dr. de Petra and General de Martino also discussed English and Italian language teaching methods. The general wished to know how the DLI teaches Italian to Americans, since he is working with many former students of the school and is impressed with their knowledge of the language.

Dr. and Mrs. de Petra, who began their trip in mid-July, returned to their Carmel Highlands home on Labor Day.

White Oaks Theatre Gave Superior Performance Of Benjamin Britten Opera

BY JACK BENSON

"The Rape of Lucretia," an opera in two acts by Benjamin Britten, was presented by the White Oaks Theatre last week. It isn't often that one has the opporunity, or the inclination, to reaffirm a reaction to a theatrical production. But this one was so superior in every respect that we returned with eagerness for the third performance after hearing the first on Thursday night.

Britten's "The Rape of Lucretia" was first performed at the Glyndebourne Festival in 1946. It is based on a famous Roman legend involving the seduction of Lucretia, wife of the Roman general Collatinus, by the Etruscan prince Tarquinius. In addition to these three central characters, the small cast includes Junius, another Roman general and friend to Collatinus; Bianca, Lucretia's nurse; Lucia, Lucretia's maid; and a male and female singer representing, in more or less Greek fashion, the chorus.

The eight-member cast is accompanied by an ensemble of like economy consisting of 12 musicians and a conductor. Several of the musicians double on instruments, however, and the conductor is pianist as well.

With this rather sparse plot and relatively small working force, Benjamin Britten has created a music drama of such tragic beauty, intensity, and magnitude that it is destined, we feel, to take its place among the supreme achievements in the field of opera in this century.

It would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to convey in words the sweep and magic of Britten's "Rape of Lucretia" and its superb production at White Oaks Theatre. Short of detailed description one must be content with a few random notes and observations. There are two scenes in each act, but only three settings: The Army Camp, Lucretia's House, and Lucretia's Bedroom. Stationed in portals at either side are the two members of the chorus, who move about, masked at times, at others not, proclaiming, narrating, voicing and reflecting the several levels of consciousness of the actors.

Britten brings new vigor to such devices as the interchange and co-mingling, conscious or unconscious, of dramatic action as expressed by each singer—a kind of "nouvelle vague" opera wherein the actors not only exchange with the chorus but shift levels of awareness of the action, thereby creating a third, and even a fourth stream of consciousness.

At the same time, Britten's extraordinary musical ingenuity weaves and blends this sort of psycho-dramatic polyphony into a surging tragedy, an electrifying spectacle which mounts, tightly and perfectly timed, to the climax, to the rape at the end of the third act. His superstructure is richly melodic vocal writing and dramatic balance, but as an opera the entire edifice is reenforced by an orchestration that is vibrant, elastic, colorful, and incredibly powerful. Incredible, that is, for 12 musicians, unless one takes a closer look at the instrumentation.

First of all, there is enough diversity of percussion to require two players. Then, the flutist doubles on alto flute and piccolo, the clarinetist doubles on bass clarinet, the oboist doubles on English horn, while the bassoonist and French horn player have all they can handle on those instruments alone. The balance of the ensemble consists of two violins, viola, cello, string bass, and harp, with, as was mentioned before, the conductor handling an extensive piano part.

Chris Nance was at the podium, and the piano. The singers appeared in the following order: Male Chorus, John Fleming; Female Chorus, Emily Lawhead; Collatinius, Dennis Dalsimer; Junius, Travis Franklin; Prince Tarquinius, Michael Devlin; Lucretia, Patt O'Neill; Bianca, Tracy Carr; Lucia, Shelia Jo White. Beautifully designed, functionally mobile sets were by Bruce Harrow. Lights were by Joan Larkey and execution of costumes by Jim Swain. Shirley Eoff was assistant to director Chris Nance. Prop men were Ron Stark and Skip Haston, who moved about in their Roman dress so smoothly that one was hardly aware of changes in scenery until completed.

All of the participants—singers, musicians, technicians — were so expert in their roles that a separate review would be required to really do them justice. However, a special accolade must go to Chris Nance, who staged and conducted the entire work, and to White Oaks founder and producer, Sally Hughes Church, and co-producer, Barbara Cook, for their astute and adventuresome spirit in bringing a great opera to this region.

An added delight was a concert at White Oaks Theatre last Sunday afternoon, conducted by Chris Nance and performed by the same musicians, with the addition of Camille Olaeta, piano, and Thomas Janusz, accordion. One regrets that space does not permit listing the names of all the musicians. The same high level of performance prevailed, however, in a program consisting of Schubert's Octet, op. 166, for strings and winds, the Quintet, op. 39, by Prokofieff, and the Kammermusik, op. 24, No. 1, by Paul Hindemith, the latter for 12 solo instruments including accordion and siren.

Mexican Schoolchildren Enrich Life In 25 California Families

BY JANE VIAL

The life in some 25 California families, nine of them local, has been enriched this summer by the visits of school children from La Paz, Baja California. And it was abundantly clear, upon their departure late last month, that this person-to-person diplomacy has resulted in increased understanding and communication among groups of different heritage, haphazard though the project may be in planning.

Pictured in front of Carmel Mission as they prepared to leave are five of these youngsters, Myrna Brera Flores, Jorge Salgado, Roque Camacho (behind), Edmundo Hernando Lizard and Ramon Carballo Cota.

The program for the exchange of elementary-age students, brainchild of American teacher Charles Carmona, is only one facet in the program of the John F. Kennedy Good Neighbor Bilingual Public Library established in La Paz by him in 1960. There, in a building rehabilitated by volunteer help, children and adults may attend classes in English, use the 15,000 book bilingual library and reference room and gain knowledge in the use of office machines. There, too, potential teachers and community leaders may be encouraged; Mexican and Americans may meet for social and cultural exchange; and, not least, the underprivileged may receive incentive as well as more material contributions (through the donation of used clothing, etc.).

Although sanctioned by both the United States and the Mexican governments, this bilingual educational outpost has no official support, nor does it depend on any foundation. Its activities are sustained by contributions of money and hard work. Its director, whose wife is a school teacher in the La Paz schools, receives no salary. How, then, does this man with a dream of his individual junior peace corps manage to bring his charges from the tip of Baja California and return them safely home?

He manages because, first, people care about children; he manages because he has a tremendous faith in what he is doing and the children have equal faith in him. And he manages because he has a near-hypnotic ability to charm people to his cause with a sense of urgency. In this respect and because there has been no public acknowledgement, much credit is deserved by the families who came to know one another through the chaotic interruption of their lives during their anxiety over the childrens' safe return to Mexico; to Father Jim Voytko of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, who provided a bus and the gasoline to run it; to the two Monterey Peninsula College students, Frank Soliz and Walter Iona, who volunteered to drive the Pied-Piper band to Los Angeles. (Donations from individuals, together with a large contribution from a Los Angeles corporation, made it possible to fly the children from the border to La Paz.)

Judging by the reaction of the families who played host to these youngsters from selected, and mostly moddle class, homes in Mexico, the inter-reaction was worth any anguish suffered through lack of planning — most would be glad to have the same, or another child, back next summer and would welcome an opportunity for their children to experience Mexican family life in La Paz.

Since La Paz is a free port, materials may be sent to the John F. Kennedy Library without duty, marked as "Educational Material." In addition, according to Mr. Carmona, the U.S. Coast Guard ship Dexter will carry donations from the United States on a good will cruise in October. In California, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

MISSION FIESTA SET FOR SUNDAY IN OCTOBER

La Fiesta de San Carlos de Borromeo, patron saint of Carmel Mission Basilica, will be held on October 10 this year. The fiesta, revived last year after a 27-year lapse, attracted hundreds of persons to the Basilica courtyard where a chicken barbecue was served, there was dancing to mariachi music and other colorful entertainment including pinatas for children.

The fiesta was first celebrated almost 200 years ago shortly after the Mission was founded by Padre Junipero Serra.

Tickets for the barbecue this year may be obtained already by telephoning 624-7958.

Remember last winter?

THIS YEAR, MAKE SURE YOUR HOUSE IS READY.

1 Have your furnace checked now. Don't let the first cold snap catch your furnace not ready for the winter. Call your furnace man now. He'll make sure your furnace is in safe working order with your gas pilots operating. Then, as soon as you need heat, you'll have it. HINT: If you take your furnace filter out and vacuum it, you won't have to put in a new one so often. Clean the dust from your wall and floor heaters, too.

2 Insulate. When floors and ceilings are insulated, you can heat rooms quickly and cut heating costs up to 30%. Good insulation increases the value of your home—and it often will pay for itself in just a few seasons.

3 Weatherstrip. Weatherstripping around outside doors and windows plugs heat leaks and keeps out drafts. A door jamb may require a metal strip to take the constant friction of opening and closing, while loose windows may need thick felt stripping.

4 Close dampers and drapes in cold weather. Fireplaces and big picture windows take away big chunks of heat and cost you money. Close the damper when the fireplace isn't in use, and draw the drapes or curtains.

5 Your winter PG&E bill. Cold weather increases your use of gas or electricity for heat. Your winter PG&E bill will also cover increased use of lights and TV, more cooking and new appliances you've added. However, PG&E energy remains your biggest household bargain—the same amount of PG&E gas and electricity costs less today than it did 30 years ago.

Cypress Swim Club Second In AAU Meet

The Cypress Swim Club won second place in the Pacific Association AAU Novice Synchronized Swimming Championships held at the San Jose Swim and Racquet Club last Saturday.

In the final official meet of the 1965 AAU competitive season, eight silver medals for their team performance of "Toy Soldiers On Parade," were awarded to Cypress members Bonnie Banker, Susan Blandin, Lindy Doud, Marnie Mark, Sheila McClain, Kathy Neill, Jo Anne Padjen, and Susan Selfridge.

The one-year-old Cypress Swim Club finished the competitive season with a total of ten bronze medals and 18 silver medals in addition to many ribbons from Association and National AAU competition.

While Saturday ended the official season, the club will participate in one more "unofficial" meet this year, a dual one at Santa Clara with the Santa Clara Aquamaids on September 25, after which they will concentrate on fund-raising projects and training new members.

From 20 new girls auditioning for membership, nine passed the qualifying tests given at the Carmel Valley Community Pool last Wednesday and Thursday. They are Jane Chalkley, Gail Downes and Kim Pilkenton from Carmel; Leslie Campbell, Mary Cummings, and Laurie Doud from Carmel Valley; Jan Eding from Monterey; and the first members from Pacific Grove, Karen Dinner and Julia Shumelda.

companies told the PUC their holdings were worth. These were $24 million for California Water and Telephone and $750,000 for the East Monterey system.

ADVANTAGES

One of the advantages of public ownership, Mr. Segal maintains, is that a municipal water district will pay no federal and state taxes, also no county and local property taxes.

According to figures submitted by the water company to the PUC, in 1964 these taxes cost the company just short of $600,000. Of this sum, $400,000 in federal and state taxes left the community never to return.

Of the remaining $200,000, possibly some shift, from indirect taxation through the water company to direct taxation by the county, may conceivably be made if voters approve the purchase of the water company on September 28. However, this shift will probably be more than made up by revenue, under public ownership, resulting from additional income accruing from new shopping centers, condominiums and subdivisions. In any event, any direct per capita taxation will be very small, if at all. The municipal water district will save federal and state taxes paid by private ownership.

In regard to management, Mr. Segal said municipal district directors have gone on public record that they will retain all present employees of the private ownerships and honor all employment benefits.

OPERATION COSTS

The cost of operating present water company holdings will be covered by water district revenue. Amortization of purchase bonds will also be covered by district revenue, he is sure. Sufficient funds will be available to ensure a surplus to effect rate reductions.

On Monday night, directors of the water district pledged a 10 percent cut in consumer rates, if voters approve the revenue bonds to buy holdings of the two private water companies on September 28.

BOND ISSUE COVERS

The $17,500,000, which voters will be asked to approve week after next, not only includes the purchase price of the two water companies involved, but also takes care of cost of establishing the PUC price; a $200,000 debt reserve; and a $500-$600,000 operating reserve. The latter sum is the estimate given to the PUC by the water company for yearly operations. The proposed bond issue will also cover an estimated $3 million in improvements and betterments of the water company since 1958.

"We will be much better off under public ownership," Mr. Segal declared. He added that public ownership, through rates and taxes, should bring in annual revenue of over $1 million. The surplus over present estimated operating costs will soon lower consumers' costs and allow provision for lower rates and better service.

In the latter respect, he indicates that California Water and Telephone Company is managed by a board of directors in Santa Monica. Recently the company has been taken over by a national organization, General Telephone and Electric, with headquarters in New York. Public ownership will bring, therefore, local management more responsive to the needs of the community.

FUTURE NEEDS

As to future needs, Mr. Segal spoke about a proposed new dam in 1980. By means of revenue bonds, which prohibit direct taxation, this need could be met by borrowing funds at four percent, or lower, under public ownership, while under private ownership at least six percent interest would have to be paid on money to finance the project and be reflected in higher water rates.

The proposed purchase by revenue bonds will mean that a municipal water district will be ahead $20,000 the first year. This sum, escalated by a similar figure added each year to the original figure, will be a distinct advantage in providing improvement reserves, he indicated.

Lastly, Mr. Segal pointed out other advantages of public ownership—federal aid for flood control and recreation, also matching fund subsidies, plus the advice of U.S. Army engineers and "other government brains."

"We'll be way ahead," he said. "We'll buy the private holdings with self-liquidating bonds, have lower rates and better service, advantageous reserves, and bright future financial prospects."

In addition, Mr. Segal stated that the special water rates which Del Monte Properties enjoys under private ownership will be honored by a municipal water district until the present agreement runs out in 1980.

Barnet J. Segal has lived in Carmel since 1922. He applied for and established Carmel's first bank in 1923 and headed this venture, the Bank of Carmel, now Crocker-Citizens, until 1928. He then went into the real estate and insurance business, served as Carmel's city treasurer for eight years, was president of the Carmel Board of Realtors. In 1940, Mr. Segal founded Carmel Savings and Loan which has won national recognition. He has been a director of the California State Savings and Loan League and, back in the 1930s, took a major part in acquiring a gallery for the Carmel Art Association.

Editor's Column . . .

is this development the result of Monterey County's forward progress and legislators with vision, Senator Farr and Supervisor Hudson.

So, next week, during the national highway observance, Monterey County residents may point with pride to the scenic road from Carmel to the San Luis Obispo County line. This part of Highway One is a credit to California's forward highway progress. Also, it will be, forever, a joy to visitors from all over the nation.

In addition, it will be rewarding, next week, to realize that the 11-cent highway construction tax each Californian pays on every gallon of gasoline will, in future, more and more, mean even functional freeways will be adapted to the environment they traverse.

Committee Told School District Financial Needs

now for life elsewhere in a world that also demands much more educationally than that which faced them, he also emphasized.

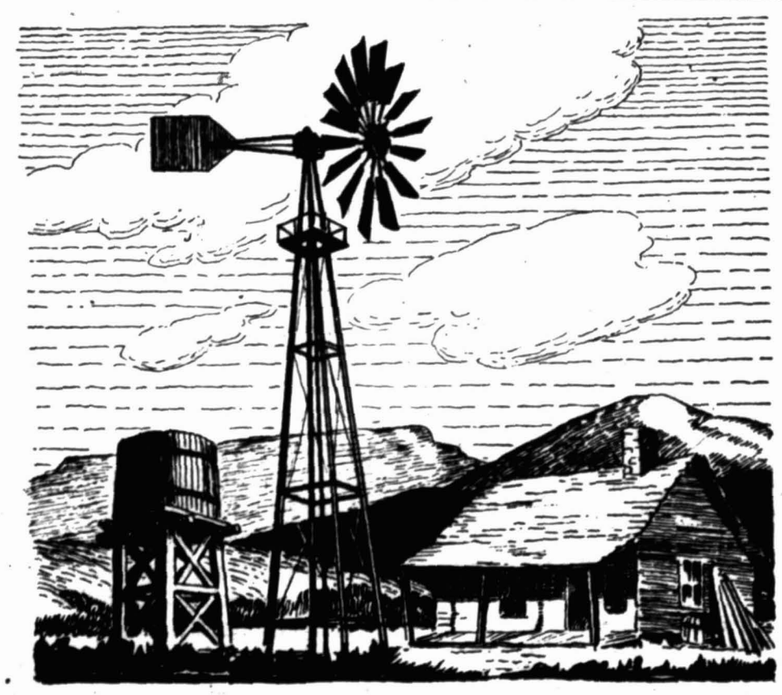
No library in any school is adequate. Teachers at Middle School have an outrageous instruction load. Salaries are too low to attract top teachers. Buildings and grounds are neglected. Needed equipment is not bought. These were other points Mr. Bair stressed.

"The board has done well. It has put money where it counts—teachers," he stated. Academic education, which is inexpensive, is provided, but the district's program in other areas is "pretty punk." Carmel is becoming a more normal community and need for instruction in these areas is increasing, he indicated.

"The board is asking your advice on how to finance the aim of education for the high spectrum children of Carmel," Mr. Bair informed the committee.

Committee members present last night were the two co-chairmen and Joseph F. Ward, Joseph McEldowney, Kenneth S. Walker, Mrs Don E. Harrison, Louis Gardner, John Sigourney, Mrs. Carl E. Menneken and Mrs. Annette Zang Thorne.

Absent were Mrs. Frank Bresk, Douglas A. Graham, A. G. (Tim) Michaud, Mrs. James A. Smith and William K. Stewart.



WATER

The Most Important Thing in Life

One of the basic conditions for life on earth is that water be available. Out of this need for water has come the greatest single industry in this country—public water supply.

Maintaining a water supply system on a high level of efficiency is a job for experts. Planning, building, and financing for future needs is another job which must be handled with the greatest skill.
